

What Are My Listening Habits?

Chloe Rushing
November 2022

Objective

- Analyze how my listening habits have changed
- Use these findings to consider what my future music taste might be

Indicators:

- Blue dot: new song added to top 50
- Red arrow: lower rank than previous
- Green arrow: higher rank than previous

Source: Personal statistics on statsforspotify.com

Context: Music Phases

- Current phases: Chinese music (2+ years), sad English songs (1+ months)
- Past phases: Show tunes (almost 3 years), Kpop (about 3 years), lofi (almost 3 years)
- Listened to Kpop and lofi during show tunes phase
- Listened to Chinese music during Kpop phase

Phase	Start Date	End Date	Timeline
Show Tunes	09/2016	06/2019
Kpop	07/2017	06/2020
Lofi	09/2017	05/2020
Chinese Music	05/2020	11/2022
Sad English Songs	10/2022	11/2022

Data Collection

- Personal Spotify streaming history from past year
- Found total times listened for each song
- Split by genre and language

Song Count

- Language
- Chinese
  - English
  - N/A

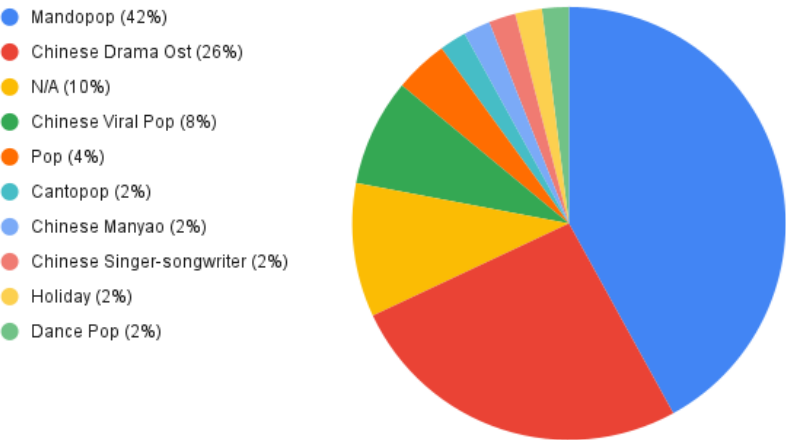

Total Songs Per Language In Top 50 Of Past Year

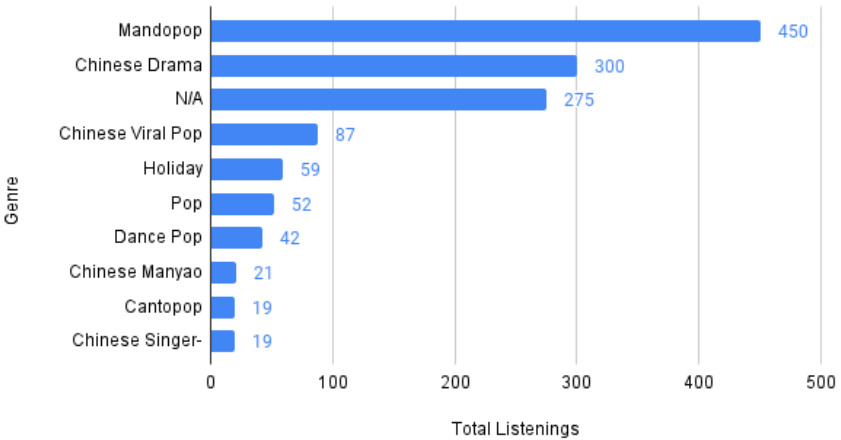

Total Listeners Per Language In Top 50 Of Past Year

Total Songs Per Genre In Top 50 Of Past Year

Total Listeners Per Genre In Top 50 Of Past Year

Data vs. Phases

Matches

Current:

- Chinese music and sad English songs - mostly Chinese language, all English songs in top 10 recently released

Past:

- Kpop, lofi, and show tunes - not in top 50

Doesn't match

Current:

- Chinese music phase longer than sad English song phase - English songs top 3 most listened to

Other Observations

- Fly Me Away released June this year - most listens in past year
- Count The Days released barely a week ago - second most listens in past year
- Altogether, more listens to Chinese language than English or languages and genres of music

What Can I Infer About My Listening Habits?

- More than likely to continue listening to Chinese music
- Fly Me Away a favorite since release; likely to remain a top song
- Occasional other languages and genres, but not as often

Sources

Personal Spotify streaming history from the past year.

